

warco

SECOND QUARTER
2009

spotlight

The ImaginOn Children's Theater was the first USGBC LEED certified public building in Charlotte.

Project Profile: ImaginOn Children's Theater

The ImaginOn Children's Theater was the first USGBC LEED certified public building in Charlotte.

Gantt Hubermann Architects of Charlotte, North Carolina, worked in conjunction with Warco Construction, and other suppliers, to achieve LEED Silver Accreditation when the theater opened in 2005.

The architect specified Novawall's PVC free Eco TRACK with 85% Post-Industrial Recycled Cotton Core. This acoustical core contributes to LEED Points for Recycled, Rapidly Renewable, and Low Emitting Materials. It's 100% recyclable, passes ASTM-E84 fire requirements and contains no formaldehyde. The plastic compound that is used for EcoTRACK is PPO, and 100% recyclable as well. Novawall is committed to enabling clients to achieve their green building goals by providing an outstanding sustainable product. Novawall makes it easy for the specifier working to achieve LEED Accreditation too. If you specify the Novawall products within the LEED Rating System, they will calculate your LEED credit contributions for you, using EcoGear, the LEED contribution calculator designed specifically for Novawall Systems, Inc. Warco has two LEED AP professionals, Jim Warren and Robert Deese to assist with LEED Accredited projects as well. The fabric facings used on the Novawall Panels for this project were custom by DesignTex. The hardboard reflector panels installed were formaldehyde free MDF that was custom stained.

The general contractor for ImaginOn, RodgersHardin, recycled 100% of the waste generated during the demolition phase and 82% of the construction waste. The ImaginOn facility was recognized by the Mecklenburg County Recycling Program for its outstanding commitment to keeping green throughout the construction process. For more information about sustainable buildings, go to the U.S. Green Building Council's web site at www.usgbc.org

ImaginOn Children's Theater
Charlotte, North Carolina
www.imaginon.org